Congregation Enjoy the Service.

The Congregational church Sunday furnished the finest musical program ever gotten up for an Easter service in that church, and a large number came to enjoy it, filling the church to overflowing.

The credit for providing such an interesting and pleasing entertainment is due to the efforts of Mrs. Elwin and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Parson of flowers and plants, which the church was tastefully decorated, added much to the enjoyment of the service.

The pastor, Rev. J. G. Fisher, delivered a short sermon on the subject of "Immortality," that was remarkable for its assertion that proof of the resurrection of the body is not a thing to be sought for in the future life.

He asked for proof of immortality, but it is a thing not susceptible of proof. There is not a man here or a materialistic philosopher who does not believe in immortality.

FIRST ANNUAL BALL.

Grand Success. Well Attended and Much Enjoyed.

Excellent Concert Music.

The Firemen's First Annual Concert and Ball was held at the Cheney Opera House Monday night, Patriots Day, and from the moment that the orchestra began their first selection to the last step in the final dance the affair was marked with all the evidences of success. The concert was by Briggs' orchestra and was pronounced as good as they have ever given.

The grand march was led by James McMenamin and Miss Jane McGivney. They were followed by as many couples as could get onto the floor. As they marched to the strains of the music the scene was well worth viewing. The finely gowned and pretty women and the men of stately mien marched, surrounded by artistically designed decorations of artificial palms and plants, presenting an inspiring sight even to the most careless observer. One of the unique and appropriate features of the decorations was the new hose that was suspended from the gallery, passing across the hall above the crowd from either side. It is said that there were never so many couples dancing there before. There was not a hitch nor a discordant note in the affair from beginning to end. The refreshment were served by the W. P. McDonald Co. The auditorium was performed with Japanese incense by the Cote Pharmacy.

The affair was in charge of the following competent committee:

W. L. Chadwick, Chairman, Alfred Sparks, B. L. Bean, H. W. Derry, Arthur St. Pierre, Floor Director, James McMenamin, Aida, Alfred Sparks, George Nadeau, William Thatcher, H. W. Derry, Philip Steinfeld, Philip Isenelson.

BOARD OF TRADE OFFICERS ELECTED

At Regular Meeting of Mexico
Board, Tuesday, April 14.

Special Meeting Saturday Night Warm Things Up.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Trade in Mexico, the following officers were elected:

Dr. W. P. Hutchins, Pres.; B. W. Goodwin, 1st, and A. E. Small, 2nd, Vice Pres.; Leon M. Small, Sec.; Chas. Stanley, Treas.; Dr. H. J. Binford, Dr. O. L. Hannon, J. M. Doyen, Charles P. Eaton, Trustees.

Saturday afternoon a special call was issued for a meeting of the board for that evening and the largest crowd in the history of the organization was out.

The matter chiefly discussed was the frequency of fires and the necessity of the immediate appointment of a building inspector. The sentiment expressed was that such an official should be appointed and that he should be an active force and really inspect the buildings and see that they were all brought within the lawful requirements.

The following committee was appointed to confer with the selectmen and urge upon them the need for immediate action, C. H. Eaton, H. J. Binford, A. E. Small.

It was stated in the meeting that Pres. Bush of the Oxford Paper Co. had offered the town the use of the mill whistle for a fire alarm. Also that he would supply the town with water from the Company system for fire if the town would run pipes across the river. The men of Mexico are thoroughly awake and are taking an interest in the public affairs that argues well for the future welfare of the town.

FINE WINDOW DISPLAYS.

The week before Easter the drug stores made very handsome window displays. The Cote and Red Cross stores made special floral exhibits, and their windows had much the appearance of "flower realms." These firms did a large business in potted and cut flowers and much skill was shown in the arrangement of the window displays. Special mention is due to Leo Gamache, who did the work for the Cote Pharmacy because of his youth and inexperience. The beauty of the exhibit can be better appreciated with the knowledge that an amateur did the work. McDonald's window display was a most striking one. The large window on Congress street was dressed in artificial Easter lilies, with a cross on either side and one of smaller size suspended midway the window. The amount of work put into the display was considerable, and the public appreciated the beauty of it.

The combined efforts of the stores in making attractive displays upon all occasions that offer opportunity make the streets of Rumford Falls well worth visiting. Many persons were attracted to the Island last week because of the splendid store exhibits.

PICTURELAND POPULAR.

"Pictureland," the place where moving pictures furnish a fine entertainment for ten cents, is deservedly popular and the daily and nightly attendance is increasing.

Under the management of Mr. Bicknell, this exhibition has been greatly improved, and some of the finest pictures in the world are shown now. Both the artistic and the comical features are attended to, and you can have a hearty laugh and your sense of the beautiful catered to, all in one performance. McMenamin's Hall, afternoon and evenings, with change of program three times each week.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR IN UNIFORM

Attend Easter Services at The Universalist Church.

Hear Impressive Musical Service and Eloquent Sermon.

Easter morning about eighty Sir Knights of Strathglass Commandery assembled in full uniform in the Square and headed by the Rumford Falls Band, marched to the Universalist church, where they were invited guests.

The church was full to overflowing, and besides filling the outside aisles, the ladies' parlor was opened and quickly filled. It was by far the largest assembly ever gathered in the church.

A special musical service had been provided for the occasion by the chorus choir. Notable features of this service were solos by Miss Swain and Mrs. Walker.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and out flowers, and a profusion of Easter lilies, and many rare plants.

The pastor, Rev. E. W. Webber, also a Sir Knight, delivered an able sermon. "The most sublime beauty," of life said in part:

Knighthood is the belief in immortality. No Sir Knight whose life has been quickened by the teachings of the Temple need be told that immortality is a fitting theme for this occasion.

In all the concerns of life we go to those competent to give advice upon the particular thing we have in hand. Thus we go to the builder when we want a house built, and to the physician when we are ill, and to the scientist for information regarding evolution.

The same rule sends us to the Bible, and especially to the Great Teacher for truths concerning human duty. The opinions of men have changed regarding it, and doctrines drawn from it have been modified, but it yet speaks with an authority upon such subjects, to which no other production of pen or brain can lay claim.

Life is the greatest mystery, and with all the discoveries of science, nothing more reasonable has been presented that the teachings of Scripture, regarding life and death.

Its appeal is not to superstitious fears, hate or selfishness; but to the Court of Reason and the Supreme Judiciary of Time.

Paul, knowing that truth would be proved in the crucible of honest thought said "prove all things; hold fast that which is good." We are not so much troubled about proving the right, as we are about holding it fast after it has been proven.

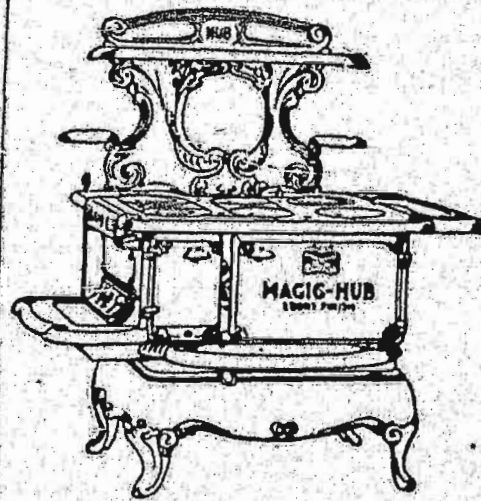

If the Bible is a fraud, then it is the fraud of the noblest minds and most unselfish hearts that ever lived. If Jesus and his disciples preached a lie, lived a lie, and died a lie, that men might become wiser, then they were strange men.

The speaker here explained that they were honest men, and met in glorious ends that mankind might be the gainer.

Continuing, the speaker said: "After the gloom of that tragic Friday there followed the unexpected revival of hope and cheer on Easter morning.

It is a spiritual law that great events must bring results capable of teaching useful lessons of God, and evolve out of chaos the perfection of society, the Messianic hope, and more than Platonic philosophy.

Today the Christian world beholds four hundred million souls, with reverent hearts, standing in imagination, at the Sepulchre. Let us thank God anew for Easter, and the blessed story

FIRE HORSES ARE HAND- SOME BAYS.

Last Thursday the span of horses for the Fire Combination wagon arrived from Lewiston, where they were bought. They are as handsome a pair of horses as were ever hitched to a wagon in this place, and if they do not do the work that is expected of them it will not be for lack of imposing appearance.

They weigh 2300 pounds, and are as easy stepping as trotters. The Wigwag's latest styles in use in city fire department stables are being constructed, and as soon as they are complete, driver Butterfield will begin training the horses for the work. They will be taught to respond to fire alarms in the same manner as regularly trained fire horses.

As soon as it can be done, the Wigwag will be finished so that the driver and several of the firemen can sleep there.

MEN AND WOMEN OF MEX- ICO DOING THINGS.

The men and women of Mexico are up and doing these days and have planned to raise a large sum of money to assist in getting equipment for the fire department.

This Thursday night they are to give a supper and a dance, and all indications are that both functions will be largely attended. Two suppers will be served, one from 8 to 8 p. m., and one from 10 to 12 midnight, in the vestry of the Congregational church.

The dance will occur in Mechanic's Hall. An orchestra of several pieces will guide the feet of the dancers, of which there will be a goodly number.

DREAMER

The Dreamer passes through the Moon. Sees the other side where it received a solar plexus blow. Lands in the "Garden of the Gods" on the Planet Venus, and is surrounded by the Seven Beautiful Women, Hobbins, headed by Senator Tillman. With pitchfork, confronts him and subdues his doubts. Sees John P. Swasey nominated for Congress.

The orb of night kept expanding until there seemed to be no limit to its circumference, and as the bird swiftly approached the sphere, the rotundity of it was lost sight of, and as the Dreamer watched, expecting the bird to alight upon the surface of the moon, there gradually settled around him a galaxy light, reflecting ozone, that made him fear that he was being conveyed into a region of ether where he would be put to sleep in a dreamless realm, and he began to reflect upon all the evil he had done, and wished with all his heart that his name had been written in the book of "Honest Men."

The atmosphere grew denser and the light was of a peculiar shade, comparable only with lavender. The sensation was very pleasant; but being very apprehensive of what the end of the journey would be, the Dreamer began repenting, and among the things he repented of was that he ever ventured into the Back Kingdom, or ever sought such a dangerous thing as knowledge, for was it not a desire to know things that had caused him to drink sap, and was it not that thought that had led to this journey into regions of mist and mystery.

He wondered whether the woodpecker that he shot on the shores of Lake Sebasticook, when a boy, (the only thing he ever succeeded in hitting) would not be waiting for him on the plutonian shore and pick his eyes out in revenge. He then began to worry about all the harsh things he had said regarding the Storgis law, and wished the deputies had seized the elixir of life (rock maple sap) before he ever got a sip of it.

As the flood of memories of evil deeds rushed upon him, the Dreamer was borne forward with a speed that was equal to that with which a well told lie can hike it over the country.

While these repentant reflections were filtering through his mind the Dreamer was conscious that he should have landed upon the surface of the moon at the rate of speed the bird had flown, and began to speculate on the cause for not seeing the moon-tains and volcanic cones that are seen through the telescopes from the earth—objects so prominent that they should be the first to attract attention as the lunar planet is approached.

It next was borne in upon his mind that whereas a short while before he could see the satellite in distinct form, he could now discern nothing, and all at once he realized that as well as being carried along swiftly on the wings of the bird, he was also going forward as though he was in a cloud.

No sooner had he ceased this peculiar motion than the air grew thinner, and colder bluer, and almost before he had time to speculate, the rapid flight of the bird had carried them beyond the haze, and as he looked back, again saw the outline of the moon; but what a changed surface. Instead of the ragged and mountainous view always seen from the earth, he gazed upon a concave surface that resembled the pit of the "Common People's" stomach after having been hit in the solar plexus by the high tariff prices are comic pictures in Boston American.

As he gazed in wonder at this strange sight, he laughed aloud, although he heard no sound, as the thought came to him that the moon must have been hit by a cannon ball from a United States war ship. The flight of the bird did not slacken, and presently the Dreamer looked forward, and to there met his gaze the most dazzling diamond bespangled light that was ever seen to or out of a dream. John P. Swasey never got a faint glimpse of such royal splendor, as illumined the sky in which the Dreamer was taking his journey.

Presently the line of the sky was lost in the over shadowing grandeur of the brilliant "diamond" rays into whose midst he was being carried.

Before he had time to speculate upon the meaning of this marvelous spectacle, and had so far relaxed in to earth conditions as to wonder what relation it all bore to one of John P. Swasey's speeches, the wings of the bird ceased from their long and strong strokes, and a series of short flaps resembling the pre-digging wing flutters of an ordinary bird succeeded, and in another instant the motion ceased, and the bird alighted—right in the midst of all these scintillating and featureless splendors.

Almost as soon as the bird's feet rested upon a solid foundation, the Dreamer found himself also standing upon solid ground although he had not voluntarily moved a single muscle. He looked around him for a view of the beautiful and wonderful winged creature upon whose back he had taken the most marvelous journey that ever saint or sinner took; and to his utmost astonishment, as he looked, he was in the center a circle, surrounded by the seven richly gowned women whom he had heard sing in the Back Kingdom.

In the midst of all these splendors and multiplied wonders the Dreamer forgot not his manners, and in his best Gulliverian salute acknowledged his admiration for the fair maids or matrons, or whatever manner of femininity they may have been.

In graceful measure they accepted the obeisance, and seated themselves upon the ground, three on either side and one in front.

The place where they were was in the midst of a gorgeously colored landscape, with varicolored vegetation of shades and hues far beyond the previous experience of the Dreamer.

After a brief survey of the scene, his eyes were brought back to the women, and as he looked particularly at the one in front, he felt impelled to speak, and he did so in this manner: "Maid, Matron, or Angelic Apparition, or whatever you may be, tell me where we are."

In a voice of richest tone, and modest inflection, yet of commanding power, she replied: "What we are is of no moment, but we are commanded to answer all pertinent and impersonal questions that may ask of us, so we tell thee that thou art in the garden of the gods on the planet nearest the sun, known in the earth as Venus."

This startling answer so amazed the Dreamer that he forgot everything for the instant, except his disposition to dispute all improbable things, and while he was not very much surprised when approaching the moon, which is only 240,000 of miles from the earth, he could not grasp the thought that it was possible to have been transported between 31 and 40 millions of miles to Venus; and accordingly he began a mathematical calculation to disprove the statement, and was sandwiching in some logical arguments to strengthen the calculation, when the scene changed, and the beautiful women were gone and in their places were some hobboblin looking creatures surrounding him, and in front there appeared a personage of threatening mien, who looked like Senator Ben. Tillman leaning upon a pitchfork.

The Dreamer gazed in surprise and keen disappointment at these unlovely and menacing figures, but mustered up courage enough to ask the meaning of such a demonstration.

The Tillmanic figure said with a voice so fearful that it would have caused a negro to turn white, at the same time pointing the gleaming times of the pitchfork at him: "Thou measly and insignificant atom in specimen, we are here to hear and answer thy arguments, thou ungrateful and rebellious recipient of the greatest favor ever bestowed upon a dust speck."

The Dreamer, who is usually a bold disputant, was completely cowed by the fearsome aspect of these hobboblin, and the pointed argument contained in the fork tines, and very meekly apologized for his doubts, and begged the demeritinal apparitions to depart.

With several vicious thrusts of the fork in the direction of the Dreamer and a forbidding frown that amounted to a threat, the unwelcome visitors faded out of sight, in the same mysterious manner that all things had happened since he "arstook" of the Back Kingdom sap.

In their places again appeared the seven women, and the same pleasing scenery. The Dreamer felt quite restored, and resolved not to express any doubts again, if he could only have this beautiful scene before him, by holding his peace.

As he gazed in wonder at this strange sight, he laughed aloud, although he heard no sound, as the thought came to him that the moon must have been hit by a cannon ball from a United States war ship. The flight of the bird did not slacken, and presently the Dreamer looked forward, and to there met his gaze the most dazzling diamond bespangled light that was ever seen to or out of a dream. John P. Monroe, Me., 1906.
We have used the true "L. F." Bitters in our family for many years with good results. They are excellent for stomach troubles, indigestion, and all the most common causes of ill health. The stomach rebels at such abuse, and sickness follows. Errors may be quickly righted by a dose of the "L. F." Bitters. They sweeten the stomach, cleanse the liver, and purify the blood. A draught.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

Only a Sunbeam.
Only a stray sunbeam! Yet perchance it hath pierced some wretched abode, gladdened some stricken heart, or its golden light found its way through the leafy branches of some wild wood, kissed the moss-covered bank where the tiny violet grows and caused shades of beauty to adorn its lovely form.

Only a gentle breeze! But how many aching hearts hath it fanned, how many hearts cheered by its gentle touch.

Only a stray bullet that pierced the noble soldier-boy as he trod the lonely midnight round, faithfully guarding the precious lives entrusted to his keeping, and the life blood slowly ebbed out, and the sunbeam fell on the cold face of the dead.

Only a drop of ink! And yet it carried the news of death to anxious ones at home, and caused the tear of anguish to trickle down the furrowed cheek of a widowed mother.

Only a frown! But it left a sad, dreary ache in that child's heart, and the quivering of lips and tearful eyes told how keenly he felt it.

Only a smile! But ah! how it cheered the broken heart, engendered a ray of hope, and cast a halo of light around the unhappy present, made the bed-ridden one forget its present agony for a moment as it dwelt in sunshine of joy and lived in the warmth of that smile. Let us increase our giving of smiles during 1908. They cost nothing and are of untold value, especially in the Home Circle.

Choose the Best Society.
It should be the aim of every young person to find an entrance into good society. By good we do not mean fashionable society. That often merits least of all this honorable title. A good social circle is one where sound principles, refined manners, and intelligent ideas are the characteristics of its members. Many a young man has gone to ruin by choosing the society of the low and vulgar, instead of those whose influence would be elevating. It is always easy to fall into evil, but often requires hard work to gain a sure footing in a refined circle.

But the end is with the effect. If a young man desires to sharpen his intellect, he will find that a judicious mingling with society will do this better than digging forever over his books. There is a wonderful amount of electricity in the social atmosphere, and the galvanic battery of the social circle will not fail to elicit many brilliant sparks.

If one desires to improve in manners he can never do so except by mingling with the refined and good. Diffidence often keeps back those who have in early life but few social advantages. The only way to overcome this painful difficulty is to plunge in. It is one of the most easily cured of all maladies. A bath in the bracing ocean of social life will enable a person to keep his footing bravely.

Your chances of success in life will be ten fold greater if you have secured a wide circle of good friends by your obliging, gentlemanly manners. No one cares about trusting or recommending a person of whom they know little or nothing except that they exist in the same community. You will often advance your interests more by spending a social evening in a respectable family, than you will by sitting in your room and pouring over your money matters, or writing a whole package of business letters.

Many men are said to be self-taught. No man was ever taught in any other way. Do you suppose a man to be a bucket to be hung on the wall of knowledge and pumped full? Man is a creature that learns by the exertion of his own faculties. There are aids to learning of various kinds; but no matter how many of these aids a man may be surrounded by, after all, the learning is that which he acquires himself. Whether he is in college or out of college, in school or out of school, every man must educate himself. And in our times and in this community every man has the means of doing it.

There are a thousand pretty, engaging little ways, which every person may put on without running the risk of being deemed affected or foppish. The sweet smiles, the cordial bow, the earnest movement in addressing a friend, the inquiring glance, the graceful attention which is so captivating, these will insure us the good regards of even a churl. Above all, there is a certain softness of manner which should be cultivated, and which, in either man or woman, adds a charm that almost entirely compensates for lack of beauty, and inestimably enhances the latter where it does not exist.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Bethel Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes, and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

Frank L. Quimby of 40 College St., Lewiston, Maine, says: "When a boy, fifteen years old, I fell from a load of hay and struck on my back with such force that I was laid up for several weeks. Ever after that I had more or less trouble with pain in the back, which was always annoying and sometimes severely painful. Last fall I was having considerable trouble and one day stepped in to a drug store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I had read a great deal about this remedy and I was not disappointed when I used it. I found prompt relief, and from my experience feel justified in recommending it to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SUMMER HOTELS HIGH-LANDS OF ONTARIO.

The Grand Trunk Railway System announces that arrangements have been completed for two handsome additions to the chain of hotels throughout the Highlands of Ontario.

The Wawa Hotel on Lake of Bays, one of the finest hotels in the Northern Resorts of Canada, is nearing completion and work is under way on the new Highland Inn situated overlooking Cache Lake at Algonquin Park station. The Highland Inn will be of the cottage type, cosy and comfortable in its appointments, all modern conveniences, colonial fire places in the dining and living rooms, spacious piazza and most charming outlook over lake, mountain and virgin forests; in fact all the comforts of civilization are transported into this virgin wilderness. Double daily mail service, telegraph and express facilities at this point with excellent train service will make this hotel unique and attractive for a restful sojourn so remote from the turmoil of the cities, but yet with all necessary facilities for communication with the outside world. The Highland Inn is situated about 1,500 ft. above sea level giving it by far the highest elevation of any summer hotel in Eastern Canada. A good boat livery and corps of guides will be maintained and tourists who desire to make extended trips through the waterways of the Park will be outfitted and provided for in every respect without rendering it necessary to bring any baggage excepting wearing apparel according to length of sojourn. These new hotels will provide every comfort and facility for the enjoyment of guests and the cost of accommodation will be so reasonable as to mean from patronizing them. In addition to this they will cater to tourist trade from Great Britain where the Grand Trunk is organizing trips of parties and individuals for a lump of expense including hotels from the time tourists leave home until they return. Such trips need not occupy more than the average holiday, say one month, and will embrace the ocean trip, an opportunity of becoming acquainted with Canadians and Canadian affairs and the entire cost will not exceed that of the usual summer holiday in Switzerland or other European Resorts.

I'm really glad I own 'em;

Grotesque.

He conceived a grotesque whim for driving his car more slowly than it could go. Friends warned him, but he persisted.

Possibilities of Profit.
"You couldn't interest that capitalist in your flying machine?"
"No," answered the inventor, "I convinced him that it was practical, but he couldn't see it because there were no provisions made for strapping passengers."—Washington Star.

Pain anywhere can be quickly stopped by one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Pain always means congestion—natural blood pressure. Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets simply coax congested blood away from pain centers. These Tablets—known by druggists as Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—simply equalize the blood circulation and then pain always departs in 20 minutes. 20 Tablets 25 cents. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. for free package. Sold by The Red Cross Pharmacy.

Needless Reminder.
"You must not think that the mere possession of great wealth makes you a man of consequence."
"You needn't have said that," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Mother and the girls let me understand it every time we give a party."

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days' rest will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the changes from day to day. Sold by The Red Cross Pharmacy.

Defective Eyesight.
"I fell in love at first sight," said the New York girl. "I don't suppose any of you Boston girls ever do that?"
"No," replied the girl from the Hub. "Most of us Boston girls wear glasses, you know!"

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. This clever Coffee Substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from pure toasted grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No 20 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. Sold by The Red Cross Pharmacy.

Didn't Look It.
Mrs. Brindle—Now, Mary, I want you to be careful. This is some very old table linen—been in the family for over 200 years, and—Mary—Ah, sure, ma'am, you needn't worry. I won't tell a soul, and it looks as good as new, anyway.

Stops earache in two minutes; toothache or pain of burn or scald in five minutes; hoarseness, one hour; muscle ache, two hours; sore throat, 12 hours.—Dr. Thomas Electric Oil, monarch over pain.

Now I am sure this is a subject of importance to all and especially so to the isolated farming people and will some one who knows or has had experience in this matter please give us a few points in regard to it. It seems as if there could be some such ring used if all on the same line could come to an understanding and agree about it. Please, some one give us their views through the paper, I am quite sure the editor will not object.

SWASEY ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

It is recognized throughout the Second Congressional District that Hon. John P. Swasey is the logical candidate for the nomination for Representative to Congress from the Second District. As to his qualifications, he is the recognized leader among the candidates when ability and general fitness for the place is considered. As to his loyalty to his party and its principles, none question.

The party has always known where to find him and no service has ever been sought from him that has not been freely and earnestly given. When he has been defeated before by other contestants for the place which he now seeks, he has invariably entered the contest in behalf of his victorious opponent and assisted heartily in winning a victory. Lastly he is Oxford County's candidate. Though the largest county in the district, it is hardly within the memory of our people when an "Oxford County Bear" has set in the lower House of Congress. Thanks have more than once been due the rock-ribbed Republicans of old Oxford for Republican victory in the Second District which fact should be worth some consideration.

The contest is between Swasey of Oxford and Sewall of Sagadahoc. Neither Blanchard of Franklin, nor Wing or Tibby of Androscoggin are seriously considered. With them eliminated, the Franklin and Androscoggin delegation should and doubtless would support Swasey and he would be nominated on the first ballot.

Proper courtesy and fairness to Oxford and her worthy candidate, as well as duty to the District to be represented would require those candidates to withdraw, and allow their support to go to Swasey. Will they do it? Here is putting it up to them.

THE GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST.

We give in another column of this issue a sketch of the business and political career of Hon. B. M. Fernald of Poland, the people's candidate for the nomination of Governor of the State of Maine.

Anyone at all familiar with Mr. Fernald's career as a business man can but realize that he possesses those qualities of integrity, honesty and fidelity to principle which eminently fit him to fill the executive office of his State with credit to himself and honor to the people.

Three months ago, it was the consensus of opinion of the people throughout the State of Maine, that Mr. Fernald would be nominated by a large majority on the first ballot. He was considered the logical candidate; the choice of the rank and file of the dyed in the wool Republicans of the State of Maine; the friend of the farmer, which has ever indeed been the safeguard of the Republican party, and on whom the party has depended for victory when the city vote has gone floundering from free trade to free silver and free run; and the one who would roll up an old time Republican vote.

Since that time, the real situation has not materially changed. Strong influences have been brought to bear against Mr. Fernald's candidacy. Mr. Haines with his barrel of gold to back the expenses of the Haines Campaign Committee, with said committee has been making a tremendous fight. Every nook and corner of the State has been entered and worked tooth and nail, and it may be said that the persistent and un-firing efforts of Mr. Haines and his committee have been supplemented by the united forces of the Democratic party and Democratic press. If there is any one thing that the Democratic party of Maine desire today next to getting into power, it is the nomination of Hon. Wm. T. Haines, because through Mr. Haines they hope to realize their first ambition, as in him they think they see a candidate which they can whip in September.

Though the Haines committee is claiming practically everything in sight and are making boasts that they have the greater part of the newspapers in the State backing their candidate, editorially and otherwise, and though as suggested, the Democratic press and party are doing more to nominate Mr. Haines than they are to bring forward a candidate of their own, yet we are confident that the real back bone of the Republican party in Maine, the farmers and the laboring men, who have long since been represented in the executive chair by one of their kind and from among their ranks, will stand firm to their principles, despite all the above forces to the contrary, and will name their candidate as the next governor of Maine with a good safe majority, when the votes are counted at Bangor next June.

UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATES NOT DESIRABLE.

The Portland Argus glorifies the idea of uninstructed delegates to the Democratic National Convention, and the Waterville Sentinel quotes in its editorial columns as though it approved. The Democratic party poses as the party of the people—the party that desire to execute the will of the people—yet these two leading Democratic papers in the State, are favoring the most undemocratic plan that can be devised. The aspersions put upon the Republicans by the Democratic press regarding packed and bought caucuses and conventions, were they true, are no more subversive of the popular will than are uninstructed delegates.

There are occasions when an uninstructed delegation may really represent the sentiment of the people who send them.

There may be several candidates for a presidential nomination, all against one opponent, upon whom centers the votes against the combined opposition. The leading man may have a fair prospect of winning. The people of a certain district may be opposed to him. In that instance, an uninstructed delegation may represent the will of its constituency, as sometimes that will is made manifest in a negative manner. The idea conveyed by the word Democracy is that the will of the people shall control. It is based upon the supposition that the will of the majority is right, but whether right or not the majority shall rule.

This latter thought is not always true, and as the Argus says, it may be true, that delegates left free to act as they think best, often having viewed the situation at close range, may act more intelligently than the people who sent them. But the principle of true Democracy is to represent the majority of the people or any distinct body that acts with the body politics; and the principle upon which uninstructed delegates are sent does not, in general, and with the possible exception above noted, does not in any particular, carry out that principle.

We are unswervingly opposed to uninstructed delegations, and are only calling attention to the matter in connection with the Democratic party because as herein stated the party claims to represent the people more nearly than the Republicans, and because the party's two leading papers glorify the idea of uninstructed delegates.

"TAINTED FICTION AS A SCHOOL FOR CRIME."

Some time ago we called attention to the class of fiction that is being published in so-called high class magazines, that we considered immoral. We herewith print a Hearst editorial, the first utterance we have seen upon the subject in any of the large dailies of the country.

"There is hardly a magazine or a novel in these highly organized times which does not contain a crime story with careful directions to possible criminals as to how crimes may be successfully committed."

One ingenious author devotes his talent to wire-tapping, and carefully explains the latest and most improved methods of carrying on that delectable industry.

Another deals with the "bunco" game on a large scale, and supplies plans and specifications for buncoing almost every sort of citizen.

Still another goes in for "gentleman burglary," and so glorifies that profession as to tempt almost any aspiring youth to embark on a life of crime rather than on a profession.

The result of all this is inevitable. It is sheer manufactory of thieves. Given a mind with a leaning toward getting something for nothing, and supply him with the means of doing it, and you have made a criminal.

There is probably no way in which the law can reach this sort of thing, although it would quickly dispose of a gentleman who set up a shop for the sale of burglars' tools.

But the offense is, nevertheless, grave, and the publisher or editor who on one page speaks of his desire to elevate the morals of a community, and on another assists in the turning out of criminals, has a moral responsibility which will some day come home.

"Hadden't the Second District better be represented by a younger man than John P. Swasey, or is Sewall too young?"—Lisbon Enterprise.

It isn't a matter of age but ability, Bro. Mann. We think Swasey has Sewall trimmed on the latter qualification, and if age counts anything, Swasey has some years the lead on that. Swasey is the man for the nomination.—He'll get it too.

EASTER CONCERTAt Mexico Baptist Church Draws Large Congregation.

In accordance with the usual custom, an elaborate concert program was rendered Easter Sunday at the evening service at the Baptist church in Mexico.

The decorations of greens and flowers were a credit to the decorators, and presented a most pleasing sight to the large congregation that assembled to hear the service.

The concert was given by the choir and members of the Bible Class, and the excellency of the program testified to the competency of those who had it in charge. EXCEPTIONALLY FINE MUSICAL SERVICE AT ST. JOHN BAPTIST CHURCH.

As might have been seen from the program published last week in the CITIZEN of the Easter services at St. John Baptist church, one of the most elaborate musical entertainments had been prepared.

Those who were there to hear it are sure that it was the finest musical service ever given in the church, and quite likely in the town. The singing of Gounod's Mass was especially fine, and probably has never been equaled here. Mrs. Wynne Staples Smith assisted in the singing. As usual her appearance proved an attraction, and also the violin obligato, by Prof. Flint, of the Boston School of Music, proved one of the most attractive features of the service. His production was classical and of a very high order.

The musical program was in charge of Father Rousseau, who assisted in the service.

At the close of the service, Father Rousseau heartily thanked the choir for the splendid work they had done.

'T WAS THE OTHER WAY.

Now and then we make mistakes, and when we do the old saying holds good "It never rains but it pours," and we do a wholesale job of it. Last week we caused Messrs. Fogg and Fish to say in their advertisement that they were handling a line of penny pictures 25 for 30 cents, when it should have been 30 for 25 cents. Notwithstanding the mistake and the fact that the price named was higher than the work commands in other places there were many who came for them and were willing to pay the price. Take notice of their advertisement in the CITIZEN this week. To further make trouble for the new company, we said that Mr. Fish was formerly from Knox County. As a matter of fact he was originally from Vineyard in Franklin County.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

Second District Delegates Unanimously Instructed for John P. Swasey.

At the Republican caucus held at the lock-up last Saturday afternoon, the meeting was called to order by Mr. E. C. Bowler, Chairman of the Republican Town Committee, who was elected chairman of the meeting, with N. B. Springer Secretary of the Town Committee as secretary of the caucus.

N. R. Springer, E. C. Chamberlin, J. H. Barrows, E. J. French and E. A. Barker were elected delegates to attend the Second District Republican Convention to be held in Lewiston on May 12th. After the election of the delegates, Judge A. E. Herriek addressed the caucus and in enthusiastic words spoke in highest terms of Hon. John P. Swasey, Oxford County's candidate for representative to Congress from the Second congressional district and presented the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

It was the unanimous opinion of those present that laying aside all local pride, Mr. Swasey is not only the logical candidate but the one that is far and away the best fitted for the position which he seeks, of any of the candidates. A strong sterling character, a manly man and a dyed in the wool Republican, is the man that Oxford County presents and the one we believe will be nominated and elected.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That the Republican voters of Bethel are thoroughly in sympathy with the movement to nominate Hon. John P. Swasey of Canton for Member of Congress from this Congressional District, and pledge to him their loyal support and hereby instruct the delegates, chosen at this caucus to attend the District Convention, May 12, 1908, to use all honorable means to secure his nomination.

rather than the exception during the Howard's rent on Main street, occupied by Fred Chambers, upper rent and Joe Watson downstairs. The fire started in the kitchen of the Chamber's rent and the family barely escaped with their lives, not a thing belonging to them being saved. The Watsons managed to save a few things. Both

A BOY'S VACATION.

A novel booklet has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway, entitled,
"What shall a boy do with his vacation?" The book answers this annual puzzle in a manner that should prove satisfactory alike to parents and boys.

The idea developed by the brochure is the establishment of boys' camps in the wilderness, where the youngsters could live under canvas and get a genuine bit of simple life, with plenty of fishing, swimming, rowing and other outdoor sports, while instruction in woodcraft and such nature studies make the camps veritable schools of the wild, such as would rejoice the hearts of Dr. Long, President Roosevelt or other advocates of the simple life. The booklet tells of many such camps in the Temagami, Lake of Bays, Algonquin Park and other districts, with illustrations of the way the boys spend their time and the fish they catch, which should prove attractive to a good many besides boys. A possible card to the undersigned will secure a copy without cost. J. Quinlan,

FIRE IN MEXICO SATURDAY MORNING.

Mexico was visited again Saturday morning by fire.

The building owned by John Howard on River street and occupied by Joseph Watson on the ground floor for a saloon, and upstairs as a tenement, also by Fred Chambers and family was burned flat.

About 2 o'clock in the morning one of the occupants was awakened by the cries of the baby and in responding to that, discovered the house full of smoke. Upon opening the hall door a burst of flame nearly overcame the person. Raising an alarm, the occupants were aroused and all succeeded in getting out, but in fifteen minutes from the time the fire was discovered there was not a timber above the ground. The occupants lost all their household goods and some personal belongings. A store house in the rear, used for ice, was also destroyed.

HON. BERT M. FERNALD

A Brief Reference to His Honorable and Successful Business Career.

For the first time in its history, Maine seems to be likely to have for Governor a man who has always been personally identified with the farming interests of our State and who, at the same time, is a successful business man and a large employer of labor and who, in addition to this, has developed a business identified with the agricultural welfare of the State and who has brought that business to a position which is recognized throughout the United States as one of the most important and prosperous of its kind.

This man is Hon. Bert M. Fernald of West Poland, whose canvas for the Republican nomination of Maine is meeting great success and whose strength has grown every day among the people until it is now practically sure that Mr. Fernald will be the nominee of the Republican Convention at Bangor, June 30th. Mr. Fernald's platform is directly opposed to that of his opponents, being for temperance and prohibition against rum distillation in favor of more equitable taxation—a taxation which will relieve the farm and the home of the heavy burden now upon them.

Mr. Fernald was born on the old home-places in Poland settled by his grandfather 199 years ago and here he lives today, conducting one of the largest and finest farms in this section of Maine. He was educated at Hebron Academy, became a famous school teacher, a supervisor of schools. Twenty-five years ago Mr. Fernald was convinced that Maine was the greatest sweet corn producing State of the Union and he foresaw the time when a chain of factories, covering the great corn-producing belt in a radius of 150 miles from Lewiston and Auburn, would be of almost worldwide importance. By his own initiative, he organized the business that from then to now under his business control has been one of the most successful in the country.

Five large factories have been built by the Fernald, Keene & True Company, covering the principal sweet corn growing sections of central Maine, and in 20 years the business has grown from an output of $20,000 a year to over $200,000 a year, making a total of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 which this firm has paid to the farmers of Maine in the past 20 years. Over 50 towns share the business developed by this firm. Every state in the Union and many foreign countries are buyers of the product of the Maine farms through the Fernald, Keene & True Company. The growth of this business has brought Mr. Fernald into large associations at home and abroad. He himself travels all over the United States each year in the interests of this great business, studying the development of the farm and business in nearly every section of the country. Mr. Fernald is largely interested in many other Maine business organizations, has helped to develop one of the largest creameries in Maine, is prominent in banking circles and in every relation his work has been marked by the highest personal integrity and a constant business success.

One great satisfaction to Mr. Fernald and his friends is that his success has not been accomplished at the cost of the respect and good-will of those with whom he has dealt, as in every town where this company does business the farmers are numbered among Mr. Fernald's warmest friends.

Mr. Fernald and his wife joined the grange 25 years ago and have been prominent members of that order ever since that time. Mr. Fernald is well known as a public speaker and has frequently addressed grange meetings in different sections of the State. He has been active on the Republican stump in Maine and participated in several campaigns.

In 1896, Mr. Fernald was elected to the Legislature from the class towns of Poland and Durham, and in 1899 and 1901 represented his county in the State Senate. During his term in the House in 1897, Mr. Fernald was of great assistance to the Eastern section of the State in securing the appropriation for the completion of the Eastern Maine General Hospital—in fact, during Mr. Fernald's whole service in the Legislature he was always interested in the State and charitable institutions.

He helped secure the first appropriation for the Sisters of Charity hospital in Lewiston, making a speech which was characterized by its liberal and progressive tone.

Mr. Fernald's work in his first two terms in the Legislature brought him to the front. In his second term in the Senate, and on the opening day, he was selected as the man to present the name of Hon. William P. Frye for the Senate of the United States. His speech on this occasion was one of the noblest addresses of the session.

In this session, Mr. Fernald was appointed to several committees, the most important of which was that on Taxation, where he had charge of what was known as "Grange Measures."

Largely as a result of his work there, the revenues of the State were increased by the magnificent sum of $250,000 per year. This committee was also responsible for the increase of several

Thousands of dollars per year in the tax on trust companies.
Mr. Fernald's six years in the Legislature gave him a thorough knowledge of the affairs of the State and led him to believe that the expenses of the State had grown faster than they should and that there was much change for improvement. When he became a candidate for Governor in the spring of 1904, he called attention to many of the matters that he thought should be bettered in what was known, at that time, as his "Platform," and there is no doubt but that platform and the campaign that Mr. Fernald carried on at that time, in the face of the greatest opposition, were largely responsible for much remedial legislation passed by the last two Legislatures.
Mr. Fernald is a man whom it is a pleasure to meet; a man who makes friends wherever he goes. He can work as many hours and do as much in every sixty minutes as any man, as his whole life shows. He is a man of high personal character, strict integrity, resolute purpose, and carries into the campaign an assurance of eminent ability as a public man, undeviating loyalty to the Republican party. He inspires a belief among his followers that if nominated he would be elected and would make a governor of unusual executive force and ability. He will enter upon the office of governor absolutely free to serve the people. He is afflicted with no clique. He has no enemies to punish; no "managers" to reward. He is a strong, able, conscientious man who will serve the great people of the State, so long as he is represented in the gubernatorial chair, with especial zeal and who, at the same time, will do exact justice to the great business interests and the vested rights of capital. Mr. Fernald is especially alive to the rights of the people in our forests and our water powers and on these issues will stand for nothing short of exact justice.

STARTLING REVELATION

By A. E. Small at Special Meeting, Mexico Board of Trade.

Declares That He Reported the Kidder Laundry Unsafe.

The Board of Trade in Mexico is a live and utility organization, and is doing things for the benefit of the town. A special meeting was called again for Tuesday night. President Hutchins called the meeting to order, and it was found that nearly as many were present as usually turn out to a special town meeting. A committee on building reported that one ought to be appointed. Selectman Randall Taylor, in a very well delivered speech, claimed that the selectmen were without authority in the matter, since according to the last census the town did not have 2,000 population. He read the statutes bearing upon the matter, and argued that the town would be liable for the damage if they appointed an inspector who acted without authority.

A. E. Davis called attention to the fact that any municipal or civil officer of any town possessed the right to order the destruction of buildings to prevent the spread of fire.

Mr. Taylor was of the opinion that a special town meeting did not have authority to act upon matters that the statutes said should be done at the annual town meeting.

Leon Small thought special meetings had same authority. He asked Mr. Taylor if the town grew to have 20,000 population if it legally would consist of the 1,400 that it had at the last enumeration. Mr. Taylor thought it would until the Legislature authorized a special census.

Lawyer Foster explained that the burden of proof was upon the party contending or raising the point. If the selectmen appointed a man as inspector and any citizen should set up a claim against the inspector's authority that objection was bound to prove that there were not 2,000 inhabitants in the town. Thought it safe to appoint.

Henry W. Park thought the officers had power to blow a building up or down, although it was not specified in the statute.

Mr. W. H. Davis brought out the fact that A. E. Small had reported the Kidder Laundry unsafe, two weeks before it was burned.

Mr. Small then took the floor and made the startling statement that he had found a boiler in the laundry carrying 60 lbs. of steam, and all the exhaust heat going against the board floor. Saw pitch trying out of the boards from the heat. Predicted the building would burn inside of two weeks, and told Charles Stanley, Thomas Stevens and Joseph Gleason. In less than two weeks the building caught fire and the great fire of last spring involving a loss of many thousands of dollars worth of property resulted.

Leon Small advocated the appointment of an inspector, one with both honor and nerve enough to do his duty. Henry Park brought out the fact that when a town had two thousand and population that it was the duty and not the mere right of the selectmen to appoint an inspector.

John Howard explained that selectmen in towns of less than 2,000 population had a right to act as inspectors. It was brought out that any unnecessary delay on the part of anyone to repair defects in chimneys or other places Mexico exhibit. A Volunteer Fire Department is being formed.

C. H. Eaton said that everybody's business was nobody's business, and that is why we need an inspector.

At this point Leon Small moved that the Board vote to recommend the selectmen to appoint A. E. Small, Building Inspector. Selectman Taylor again declared his belief that the appointment would be illegal.

H. W. Davis said as there was no dispute about the need for an inspector, that some way could be found to get him legally appointed. "Exercise of a little brain power is all that is needed."

Mr. Thomas agreed with Mr. Taylor that there was no doubt as to the authority of the selectmen to appoint, inasmuch as no one knew that the town had 2,000 inhabitants.

Leon Small said that no decent man would object to an inspector inspect when so ordered by the selectmen was marked that some women might. This really created laughter. Mr. Small turned the tables by saying that "we have no intention of getting you appointed, Mr. Park." All joined in the laugh.

B. W. Goodwin thought the town would not be responsible for acts of an inspector that was illegally acting. There was much discussion before a vote was taken. The motion prevailed by a large majority. Mr. P. A. Perkins reported a petition asking the M. C. R. R. Co. to move cars more speedily from the crossings at the round house. The petition is referred to in another place. Chris. Burt and R. L. Ford became members of the Board and signed the constitution.

P. A. Perkins reported upon the call for a special town meeting and read the eleven articles in the warrant. It was signed by the necessary number of voters to ensure the call. The principle thing in the warrant is to see if the town will vote to buy a chemical engine. An important article relates to the offer made by Pres. Busa of the Oxford Mill to furnish water for fires. The rate of interest on unpaid taxes is another matter to be taken up. One of the most interesting articles is that which relates to the formation of a Village Corporation. A committee on sidewalks reported favorably.

The discussion of the various questions kept the meeting till a late hour.

The men were all earnest, and many able speeches were made. It does the heart of a fine American citizen good to see the public spirit the men of Mexico exhibit. A Volunteer Fire Department is being formed.

TENT SOON TO BE ERECTED.

Work of clearing the ground in the Power Company lot for the erection of the Salvation Army tent has begun, under the direction of J. H. Kerr.

The services continue well attended. Last Sunday the afternoon services were conducted by Rev. H. L. Hanson of the Baptist church, Rumford Falls, and by Rev. J. H. Palmer, Mexico. Mr. Hanson spoke on the idea of the resurrection.

Mr. Palmer spoke upon the text "For whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap." The subject was dealt with in a sensible manner and the truth of the law made plain.

The hall was filled to overflowing in the evening. Captain Veinot feels much encouraged.

WHAT BECAME OF THE ROBE?

Monday night, E. H. Hale of Riddellville, drove to the Falls to attend the Salvation Army meeting and pitched his horse at the corner of Exchange and Congress streets. Before going to the barracks he very carefully laid a valuable robe on the seat of the carriage, and tucked the corners under the cushion to prevent the wind from blowing it away. He was gone about half an hour, and when he returned the robe was also gone. There was a very high wind prevailing and it is not altogether sure that the gale did not dislodge the robe, but if so whoever picked it up did not notify anyone in the vicinity, and Mr. Hale departed for home in doubt as to whether his robe was stolen outright or was "just found."

A Chance to save Money.

There is not the slightest reason why you should not feel well and strong. That great free offer of Dr. Greene's is proving the best friend that weak and delicate people ever had. A letter sent to him at his office, 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., telling the symptoms you are suffering from, will be immediately answered by the doctor, describing your complaint minutely, and making you understand perfectly just what ails you. And all this costs you nothing. You don't have to leave your home and you don't have to pay any doctor's fee to learn exactly what your complaint is, and how to get well and strong, from Dr. Greene, the greatest living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The Doctor makes a specialty of curing patients through his great system of letter correspondence, and is having wonderful success. Thousands of weak delicate men and women are writing him about their complaints, and are being permanently cured. It was he who discovered that world-renowned curative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Write the Doctor at once and see what he says about your complaint. It will probably be the means of your getting back your health.

SWASEY FAR IN LEAD.

There has not been a break in the Swasey ranks in Oxford County so far. Benjamin Swasey has received direct information from 22 out of 33 towns that all delegates are for John P. Swasey to the end of the contest. These towns have 58 delegates. There are 34 yet to be chosen and there is no doubt whatever that they will all support Oxford's candidate. Swasey is making headway outside of the county. Lisbon delegates, supposed to be for Sewall are for him. Mechanic Falls delegates are also for him, and many encouraging reports from unpledged delegates and from towns outside the county where delegates hold Swasey as second choice. All signs point to his triumphant nomination.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS IN UNIFORM.

it tells. May this great festival of victory mean new life for us.

There are some to whom Easter signifies but one thing—immortality. Others look upon it as a well authenticated miracle. Others view it from merely a conventional religious standpoint, and are impressed with its testimony to immortality and the divine character of the Christian religion.

Someone has truly remarked, "There is a larger Easter than these popular conceptions. The larger Easter is the spiritualized conception." This new thought means that the resurrection of the Christ was the impartation of his life to mankind. He arose from the dead, not merely to show his power over death, but that sons of God might enter into that divine life that he so often said was theirs as well as his.

Much of the New Testament story of the life after the resurrection has been interpreted by scholars to refer to the moral and spiritual resurrection that is coming to nations and men here and now.

However this may be, we rejoice that as never before are men acknowledging the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

We see the power of the gospel in the evolution of a higher type of civilization. We would view without satisfaction Christ's work "ere, if we did not get a hope of life beyond."

Here the speaker explained some special Christian doctrines concerning the soul, the effect of belief in annihilation upon men, as viewed by Christian believers. The speaker claimed that the faith in immortality was responsible for the progress of mankind. He quoted from Cicero, who said, "But if I err in believing that the soul of man is immortal, I willingly err. Not while I live would I have the delightful error extorted from me; and if after death I shall feel nothing, as some philosophers think, I am not afraid that some dead philosopher will laugh at me for my mistake."

Continuing he said: "No argument is necessary to Sir Knights to prove the immortality of the soul, for they have professed such belief; but the theme is fitting today. Materialism is forever assailing this truth for which Easter stands, by placing man among the mere products of nature; among the plants, the fossils and the birds of the air."

It becomes us as Sir Knights to place against such a form of so-called science, these deeper experiences of life—the longings of the mind, the yearnings of the soul, as an antidote to the crudeness of materialism. The reason why this cold, materialistic philosophy has caught the popular ear is because the intellectual mind has become weary of some of the obsolete ideas of religion."

Here the speaker made an argument to prove that these ideas did not prevent belief in the soul and God existence, and said, "The belief that man is no more than the worm of the dust, robs the mind and even the starchy heavens of their significance."

He closed this part of the subject by saying, "Let religion throw aside its acquired errors, then we can fight intellectual battles for truth."

The sermon was brought to a close by a timely reference to the spring time and the connection existing between Easter and the revival of vegetable life, and the speaker drew some beautiful word pictures of the resurrection of the trees, the flowers, and the products of nature. A description of a beautiful landscape by Dr. Gregg was quoted, to illustrate the process of resurrection in nature.

"Let us transform our sorrows into joys, our trials into triumphs, our fears into hopes, and our griefs into a vision of a better country, where there are no sorrows, no tears, nor death."

After the regular morning service, two ladies were received into membership. This service was followed by the Holy Communion.

PETITION FOR OVERHEAD CROSSING.

A petition signed by about 200 business, professional and truckmen, was presented to Division Superintendent Lovejoy, this week, asking for an abatement of the practice of having trains stand on the crossing by the round house for a longer period than the law allows. The statement of teamsters is that the way is frequently obstructed for five and ten minutes, and sometimes longer.

The petition also calls for the building of an overhead crossing at that point. The crossing could be easily built, the petitioners claim (not set forth in the petition) from the highway across the flat near the Cornell property.

DEATH OF DAVID R. STRAW

One of the Prominent Men of Piscataquis County Died at his Home in Guilford Saturday.

The following was taken from the Bangor Commercial. David R. Straw referred to was a brother of W. O. Straw of Bethel.

Guilford, April 18.—"The death of David R. Straw, one of the most prominent men of Piscataquis County, occurred at his home at Guilford Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Although he had not been in good health for more than a year he had partially attended to his business up to three months ago. Since that time he has been gradually failing and the end did not come unexpected. The cause of his death was a general breakdown and old age."

Mr. Straw was born at Guilford, May 18, 1836, and was the second of a family of 13 children of David R. and Caroline A. Straw, four of whom are now living. He received his early education in the town schools of Guilford and Phillips Andover academy at Andover, Mass., and graduated from Bowdoin College in 1858. After graduating, he began the study of law with his father and was admitted to the Piscataquis County bar in 1862 and at one time was one of the most prominent lawyers in the State.

He was held in the highest esteem by his townspeople, having filled the offices of town clerk and treasurer for a number of years and also a member of the board of selectmen. It was due in a large measure to him that the Piscataquis Woolen Co. of Guilford, of which he was one of the incorporators, is now considered as one of the first of its kind in the State. He was also one of the chief promoters of the celebrated slate quarries of Monson. In 1882 he entered in partnership with Otis Martin in the insurance business in which he was actively engaged up to the time of his death.

He was a charter member of the Mt. Kineo lodge F. and A. M. of Guilford, member of the St. John commandery, K. T., of Bangor; also of the Good Cheer lodge, I. O. O. F., of this town. Mr. Straw leaves to mourn his demise, a widow, one son and two daughters. Mr. Straw was one of the staunchest supporters of the Methodist Episcopal church. The funeral will be held at Guilford, Wednesday, April 23."

TEST FOR THE MAXWELL.

Sunday, a record for a combined sealed-bonnet and sealed-high-gear test was made by a Maxwell 4 cylinder touring car with five persons up, the run being 174 miles from New Haven, Conn. to New York and return.

There have been sealed-bonnet tests galore, but it remained for Harry Tuttle the Maxwell agent at New Haven, to pull off a test in which everything he could think of was sealed-bonnet: Coil box, radiator cap and even the tool box. Then the high gear was sealed in so that every start had to be made and every hill climbed on the high, not even the reverse being available to get out of tight places or to retreat from a route once chosen. Tire tools only were available and this was a lucky provision for the car picked up a tack on the return trip—the only stop on the entire journey.
